MY VISION OF CANADA

III

What Is Wrong in Canada?

In the last two articles I have discussed the appreciation and affection which I have developed as a sojourner in Canada for the people and institutions of this country. But as a friend of Canada and one who is deeply concerned about its progress, I would be untrue to myself if I conveyed the impression that I believe all is well with Canada. Though I have no desire to become known as the gloomy Rabbi, I cannot refrain from stating candidly that in common with many other careful observers I discern that there is another side of the picture, a side which, not gloomy, is nevertheless not as bright or as roseate as that which I have been describing in the previous article.

On all sides I hear that there is something radically wrong in Canada and there must be more than a grain of truth in these rumours because they are so universal.

What is the evidence that there is something wrong?

During the last few years Canada has been losing on the average of over a hundred thousand people a year, over and above its increments from births and immigration. This loss includes principally Canada's native-born sons and daughters, among whom are her best trained and professional people. The reason seems to be that there are greater opportunities for work and advancement "across the line." The salaries are bigger, jobs are more abundant, the opportunities are bigger. Since 1919 Canada has suffered a continuous economic depression, which is unparalleled for many a like term. The diminishing rather than increasing population coupled with the economic crises, has brought Canadians to a most critical state of pessimism and mental depression.

As I examine into the root cause of Canada's position to-day, I find it to be due to two root causes. The first is the unsettled conditions in Europe upon whose markets Canada's exports largely depend, and secondly, the psychological condition which paralyzes Canadian initiative makes her unable to lift herself, as it were, by her own boot straps. So far as Canada's dependence on European reconstruction is concerned, it is a condition which only time and improved economic international relations can rectify. But Canada need not wait for her forward movement wholly on improvement in European conditions, important as they may be, if Canadians will only take themselves in hand, figuratively speaking, and master theor own psychological depression. Much of Canada's troubles are mental and imaginary.

Canada seems to be suffering from certain fear complices and bogies. Bogies, as everybody knows, are unreal and fictitious spirits of evil which exist only in the imagination of people. Nevertheless once they lodge themselves in the imagination they take an uncanny reality that is most distressing and exasperating. Psychologists and educators are forever warning us not to frighten children with bogies or to fill their plastic minds with false ideas that create mental "complices," as false ideas once in the mind surround themselves with an emotional fringe that prejudices our thinking and moulds our habits. No amount of rationalization in later life really ever helps us to get rid of these mental bogies and they continue to haunt the memory like Banquo's imaginary ghosts. Canadians are to-day suffering from several such bogies.

There is the bogy of annexation, so frequently heard from in the Maritime Provinces of Canada. Then there are other sections from which this cry is raised. Annexation to the United States is a bogy that was raised to defeat the Reciprocity issue. Yet anyone who takes the trouble to study Canadian history and understands the forces that make Canada a nation and appreciates the ties that bind Canada to the Empire, must realize that Canada will not easily sever her Empire ties nor ever give up the fight for nation selfhood. I believe that most people are to-day convinced that even economic reciprocity with the United States would not have eventuated in annexation, for it is conceivable that Canada could and would have retained her national independence, her cultural and political identity, whilst exchanging goods with her neighbour on an economic basis that would be favourable to both countries.

What Canada needs most is to get rid of the bogy of annexation and to cultivate in its place a greater faith in her own destiny as an independent nation tied to the Empire by the chords of language, tradition and a like form of democratic government, but differing from the Mother Country in racial composition, geographic position and destiny. Canada's mission may find itself best fulfilled by being forever linked up with the Empire and the Empire's mission, a mission which all English-speaking peoples share in common, a mission guaranteeing the world peace to which I referred in a previous article. But in spite of this unity of spirit, Canada must develop a distinct national self-consciousness that is independent and free to progress in accordance with her needs. Canada does not wish to be like the United States, though of course Canadians are friendly and have a great admiration for their neighbours across the line. On the contrary, Canada's destiny is to be as much like her own self as possible and as unlike the United States as her difference in government, racial composition, economic interests and cultural outlook may demand.

Perhaps the greatest menace that Canada faces in regard to annexation is not the likelihood of actual political confederation with the United States as the more invidious and more dangerous form of mental annexation which is going on in the minds of many Canadians who are being influenced by the waves of hysteria, of false and unsound ideas which sweep the United States from time to time and which are not typical of true Americanism. I have reference to ideas such as that of Nordic race superiority, which the enemies of liberal immigration raised as a smoke screen index to shut the gates of the United States to immigration from Southern and Eastern Europe. Every reputable anthropologist and psychologist has denounced the scientific charlatanary which gives credence to the theory of Nordic race superiority. Sociologists of authority have denied that the immigrants are unassimilable. They have maintained on the contrary that many immigrants assimilate too rapidly for the good of the country and themselves. Too often the immigrant in his zeal to become like the native mistakes the tinsel for the true gold and imitates the cheap and tawdry and jazzy things of American and Canadian life, instead of remaining loyal to the ideals and standards of life which are part of his heritage from the old world. It was a great [illegible] which the American manufacturers are beginning to appreciate, for [illegible] to have shut her doors to a source of [illegible] supply

MARRIAGES

Goldberg—Caplan

Irene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Caplan, and Henry Maurice Goldberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Goldberg, were married at the Venetian Gardens by Reverend Berger on June 14. The bride, who was given away by her brother-in-law, wore white flat canton, beaded in rhinestones and crystal beads. Her veil of tulle was clustered with lilies-of-the-valley and her crown was studded with rhinestones. Her bouquet was of roses and lilies-of-the-valley, with a shower of orange blossoms. Miss Rose Goldberg, sister of the groom and maid of honour, wore a gown of peach georgette, hand painted and trimmed with brocaded silk tulle. She carried Ophelia roses. The best man was Samuel Shapiro. The bridesmaids were: Miss A. Caplan, in a maize romaine crepe gown embroidered with panne velvet flowers; Miss S. Bloom, burnt orange georgette; Miss O. Weiner, water-green kitten's ear satin; Miss Nettie Goldberg, flowered georgette; and Miss S. Shafer, mauve beaded gown. They carried bouquets of roses. Arthur Caplan, Louie Slatooff, Nat Cohen, Frank Singer, Dave Jasby, and Jack Gotlieb were groomsmen. The flower girls were Florence Bloom and Florence Moore, in pink georgette trimmed with French flowers and baby ribbon. Both carried baskets of sweet peas. Albert Caplan, the page boy, wore a King Charles suit. The bride's mother wore black beaded canton, with corsage of roses, and the groom's mother black georgette, with corsage of roses. At the reception there were 600 guests. Among the guests present were the members of the A.Z.C. fraternity and also those of the Pharmaceutical Association of McGill University. Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bloom, of Dufferin, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Bloom, Mrs. Fine and Miss Pearl Bloom, of New York.

Wasserman—Druckman

The marriage of Jeanette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Druckman, to Sam Wasserman, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Wasserman, was solemnized on Sunday, June 14, at the Bnai Jacob Synagogue, Rabbis Cutler and Baker officiating, assisted by choir. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore white crepe romain beaded in pearls. Her veil of silk net was drawn into cap effect, with clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white roses, lilies, and lilies-of-the-valley. The maid of honour, Miss Fannie Druckman, wore white georgette trimmed with lace, and carried American Beauty roses. The bridesmaids were Misses Alice Druckman, in cream flowered georgette; Jennie Wagner, orange beaded georgette; Yetta Frankel, powder-blue georgette; and Goldie Wasserman, geranium georgette. All wore head-dresses to match and carried Ophelia roses. The flower girls were Minnie Rosenhek and Lillie Presner, who wore pale blue georgette frocks and carried baskets of sweet peas and carnations. The best man was Jack Fallen, of Ottawa. The groomsmen were M. D. Mensher, A. Shapiro, L. Neiderhoffer and Louis Harper. The bride's mother wore titian satin-faced canton trimmed with lace and wore a corsage of American Beauty roses. Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wasserman will live in Montreal.

Levenstein—Lax

The marriage of Mary, daughter of Mrs. Barnett Levenstein and the late Barnett Levenstein, to Dr. Samuel Lax, son of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Lax, was solemnized at the Spanish and Portuguese Synagogue on June 11, at 3 o'clock, Dr. Corcos officiating, assisted by Rev. De la Penha. During the signing of the register Alfred Saxe sang the bridal chorus from Lohengrin, accompanied by Miss Dora Black on the organ. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore white satin and silver lace. Her tulle veil was made in cap effect, with clusters of orange blossoms. Her flowers were Ophelia roses, with shower of lilies-of-the-valley. The matron-of-honour, Mrs. Lorne Schwartz, wore a French beaded gown of salmon satin and black picture hat, with a bouquet of Columbia roses. The best man was Joseph Rosenblatt. The ushers were Jack and Harry Lax. The bride's mother was in a black beaded georgette gown, with corsage of roses. The mother of the groom wore a black crepe gown, with corsage of roses. Miss Dora Black played the wedding march. A reception was held for about seventy-five guests. Mr. and Mrs. Lax left for the Laurentian Mountains and on their return will live in Montreal.

Reider—Tesher

The marriage of Dorothy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. Tesher, to David Reider, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Reider, was solemnized on Sunday, June 7, at the Annex Hall, with Rabbi Rosenthal officiating, assisted by his choir. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of white georgette trimmed with points of real lace. Her veil of silk net, marked with real lace, was fashioned in Spanish style, with clusters of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of Ophelia roses, lilies, babies' breath, and shower of lilies-of-the-valley. The maid-of-honour, Miss Lily Petefsky, wore a yellow georgette gown with bouffant skirt and hat to match. She carried American Beauty roses. The bridesmaids were Misses Ida Reider, Sara Goldman, Jeanne Elgin, Minnie Goodman and Eva Cutler, in gowns of pastel shades of taffeta in old-fashioned style, with hats to match. They carried sweet peas and roses. The best man was Philip Zidel. The groomsmen were Moe Leibovitch, Adolph Hertzig, Abe Heft, Moe Yaine and Harry Yaine. The flower girls, Sara Kolbernick and Ruth Friefeld, who wore blue georgette frocks with jockey hats to match, carried baskets of sweet peas. The bride's mother wore black georgette, beaded in silver beads, and corsage of American Beauty roses. The mother of the groom, black satin trimmed with sequins, with corsage of American Beauty roses. A reception was held for 400 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Reider went to Atlantic City and New York, and will live in Montreal. The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. N. Backman and Mr. and Mrs. L. Wilinsky, of New York.

Fickler—Selette

The marriage of Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Selette, to Jos. L. Fickler, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. Fickler, was solemnized on Sunday, June 14, at the Windsor Hotel, with Rabbi Berger officiating.

Weiser—Bernstein

The marriage of Goldie, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Bernstein, of Toronto, to Julius E. Weiser, of Montreal, was solemnized at the Bnai Jacob Synagogue, Rabbi Berger and Rev. Cotler officiating, assisted by the choir, Tuesday, June 16, at 7 p.m. The bride, who was given away by her father and mother, wore a white georgette gown beaded in pearls. Her veil of silk lace, made in oval design, had a Queen's crown of orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of tea roses and lilies of the-valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Shirley Bernstein, as maid-of-honour, wearing a gown of white taffeta made in bouffant style, and carrying a Colonial bouquet of roses and sweet peas. The bridesmaids were Misses Fanny Bernstein and Evelyn Koren, of Toronto. Edith Silverstein, of London, Ont., and Sadie Spector and Bess Richstone, of Montreal, who were all dressed in white and carried bouquets of premier roses. The flower girls, Phyllis and Marjorie Bernstein, wore frocks of white crepe-de-chine trimmed with cream lace and rosebuds, and carried baskets of sweet peas. Isidore B. Brigger was best man and the ushers were A. A. Katz, B. Mindlin, M. Gross, N. Frank, of Montreal, and M. Stone, of Toronto. Mrs. M. Bernstein, mother of the bride, wore a gown of all-over black lace caught up with roses, with a colonial corsage of American Beauties. Mrs. Silverman, aunt of the groom, wore a black georgette gown, with a colonial corsage of American Beauties. Mrs. J. Arbus, of Los Angeles, aunt of the bride, wore a gown of black sequin with a corsage of American Beauties. A reception was held in the Assembly Hall of the Synagogue. The groom's gift to the bride was an automobile. Mr. and Mrs. Weiser left for New York and Atlantic City, and on their return will live at 1937 Esplanade Avenue. Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Wilner, B. Wilner, M. Cowitz, L. Simrod and Mrs. Goldstein and children, all of Toronto; Mrs. Freidman and daughter, of Detroit; Mrs. L. Tarter, of Port Arthur, Ont.; and M. J. Silverman, of Manchester, England.

Kastner—Rosenblatt

The marriage of Lea, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. Rosenblatt, to Abe Kastner, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Kastner, was solemnized on June 16 at the Annex Hall, Rabbi Berger officiating, assisted by Reverend Miller. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of beaded white satin. Her veil of tulle was arranged in cap effect, with cluster of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of roses with shower of lilies-of-the-valley. The maid-of-honour, Miss Ethel Rosenblatt, wore a gown of white georgette and carried a bouquet of roses. The bridesmaids were Misses Ella Goldschlager, gown of maize georgette; Ethel Shier, rose-coloured georgette; and Ella Besner, peach-coloured georgette, who all carried bouquets of roses. The best man was Charlie Rosenblatt. The groomsmen were Louis Shier, Isadore Rosenblatt and Arthur Gross. The page boys, Sidney and Manny Sliescher, wore Lord Fauntleroy suits. Mrs. O. Rosenblatt, mother of the bride, wore a beaded gown of black crepe, with corsage of roses. Mrs. Kastner, mother of the groom, wore a gown of black crepe, with corsage of roses. A reception was held in the Annex Hall for about 250 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Abe Kastner left on a motor trip to Saratoga, and will live in Montreal.

Heller—Cohen

The marriage of Mamie Bessie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Cohen, to Lyon Heller, son of Mr. R. Heller, was solemnized at the Annex Hall on Sunday, June 14, Rabbi Berger officiating. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of white satin, beaded. Her veil of net was arranged in cap effect, with clusters of orange blossoms. She carried roses, lilies, and shower of lilies-of-the-valley. The maid-of-honour, Miss Bessie Strean, wore a gown of rose-coloured georgette, with white hat, and carried roses and sweet peas. The bridesmaid, Miss Bessie Felstein, was in pale blue georgette, with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of roses and sweet peas. The best man was Dr. L. Strean. The usher was Morris Goldin. The mother of the bride wore a gown of black beaded satin, with corsage of roses. Supper was served to about fifty-five guests. Mrs. R. Heller, of Toronto, was among those from out of town.

Costiner—Harris

The marriage of Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Harris, to Gabriel Costiner, was solemnized at the Bnai Jacob Synagogue, Rabbi Cutler officiating, assisted by Rev. Berger. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of white satin trimmed with beads. Her veil of net was trimmed with rhinestones and she carried roses and lilies. Issie Harris was best man. Miss Fanny Pransky, the maid of honour was in red georgette trimmed with cream lace, and carried roses. The bridesmaids were Misses Esther Abrubus, Mary Amber, Mary Aronoff and Minn e Wise. The groomsmen were Lou Fitleberg, B. Williams, H. Choquette, J. Harris and Joe Schwartz. A reception was held in the hall of the Synagogue to about 200 guests. The out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Prognsn. of Ottawa, and Miss Dworkin, of Ottawa.

NORTHERN ONTARIO CANADA

Northern Ontario, now open for settlement in 160-acre blocks at fifty cents per acre, contains millions of acres of the finest agricultural land in the world. Its resources in lumber, mineral, water power, fish, game and scenery are immense. The land calls for men to cultivate it, and in return will give health, comfort and prosperity.

What settlers say of the soil, climate, farming and forest life, is told in a most attractive booklet issued under the direction of the Honourable J. S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario. Full instructions in regard to acquiring a title to these rich agricultural lands are also given.

JEWISH FRESH AIR FUND NEEDS MONEY

Contributions are solicited to the Jewish Fresh Air Fund, A. J. Livinson, honorary treasurer, 1207 St. Lawrence Boulevard. There will be no canvassers or personal solicitations. Israel Blackman C.A., is honorary auditor.

There was recently formed the Jewish Fresh Air Fund Society. The trust fund, which will have for its 1925 season's budget the sum of $5,000, will be utilized to provide a minimum of two weeks' vacation in country homes or mountain camps for mothers, young children and young girls. The transportation charges and necessary clothing outfit will also be paid for from this fund. The most deserving cases, in all instances, will be accommodated first.

This fund also contemplates the supervision of several mass outings for groups of children.

AMERICA'S FIRST JEWISH COLLEGE

New York.—Widespread interest and discussion have been aroused by the announcement that the Rabbi Isaac Elchanan Theological Seminary proposes, as a result of its present building fund campaign, to include a College of Liberal Arts and Sciences in the enlarged Yeshiva of America that will shortly arise on a commanding site of three city blocks overlooking the Harlem River on upper Amsterdam Avenue.

The Yeshiva's plan to establish a college in order that it can more fully carry out its ideals has caused much comment in which the original idea of the Yeshiva leaders has been lost sight of. Misunderstandings there have been aplenty. Some have believed that a Jewish University is planned, which is farthest from the thoughts of the Yeshiva leaders. On the other hand, leading American educators have been quick to hail the Yeshiva's programme as a movement of great possibilities for the enrichment of American culture.

Lux for everything you wash yourself

Washing your most precious possessions with Lux is just as easy as washing your hands. The filmy Lux particles melt instantly into a rich foam of almost magic cleansing power, yet gentle to the frailest fabric.

For all dainty things that have to be washed often—as well as all valuable things that have to be washed seldom and with the greatest care—rely on Lux. Remember, it won't shrink woollens, nor will it harm a single silken thread. And Lux is just as mild on your hands as the finest toilet soap—in fact it benefits them.

NEW GIFTS OF $89,000 FOR HEBREW COLLEGE

Inspired by the scholarly dignity of white-haired Dr. David Yellin, principal of the Hebrew Teachers' College of Jerusalem, gifts for his College, amounting to $89,000, were announced at a luncheon in his honour given by the American committee of the college in the Hotel Astor, New York.

With that sum, $110,000 has been raised toward the $150,000 College buildings. Of the amount contributed, $50,000 was donated by Julius Rosenwald of Chicago, on condition that Dr. Yellin raise $100,000 more before returning to Jerusalem in July. The American Alumni Association, of which there are fifty members, twenty-three living in New York, gave $2,000.

To the thirty prominent business and professional men at the luncheon, Dr. Stephen S. Wise told of the splendid work by Dr. Yellin in the Zionist movement. Federal Judge Julian W. Mack presided and other speakers were Reuben Brainin, Dr. Harris Masliansky, Dr. Elias L. Solomon, Dr. Israel Leventhal, Harry P. Fierst, Dr. Joseph Silverman and Dr. David de Sola Pool.

JEWISH RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION IN RUSSIA

At a recent meeting of the Anglo-Jewish Association, a report of the Joint Foreign Committee was submitted in which among other things it was related that the Secretary of the Committee made representations to the Russian Minister in London, Mr. Rakowsky, regarding the alleged continued persecution of the Jews by the Soviet authorities and more particularly the obstacles which are placed in the way of Jewish religious instruction. Mr. Rakowsky said that he had submitted the complaints of the committee to the Moscow Government and that he was confident that when a reply was received an equitable and friendly settlement of all the Jewish grievances would be arrived at.

The committee also reported with regard to the "Numerus Clausus" in Hungary, that the League of Nations are still waiting for the reply of the Hungarian Government to the proposal of the committee that the validity of the law shall be submitted to the Permanent Court of Arbitration. As there is a time limit within which the reply should be filed, the further development of the question can only be awaited with patience. Meanwhile, the committee reports that at a meeting of the Minorities Committee of the League of Nations Union, held on March 24, a resolution was adopted recommending the executive to support the petition presented to the League of Nations by the Joint Foreign Committee.

every friday

"Sometimes when people censure me,
I tell them without rancour
That for what it cost me to be free
I might have had an anchor."

Several months ago, David Mosessohn, of New York, high in Bnai Brith Lodge circles, wrote to Adolf Kraus, national president of the Order, saying: "I, who pride myself in keeping posted on Jewish matters, could not, if asked, give any instance of real work that the Bnai Brith is doing to-day. Despite my activity and love of the Order, I cannot give any substantial reasons why men should join."

Although on the surface of Mr. Mosessohn's letter it seemed his primary purpose to criticize the Bnai Brith Magazine, which he thought should confine itself strictly to specific Bnai Brith news, he took enough side-swipes, in passing, to constitute a strong indictment of the Order itself. Copies of his letter were sent to all English-Jewish papers, ostensibly for the purpose of gathering opinions from editors on the encroachment by the Bnai Brith Magazine upon the Jewish magazine field. Although Mr. Mosessohn's letter was marked "not for publication," its subject matter was used by many papers. It is a question whether he had a right to expect it to receive confidential consideration and whether he was really disturbed later when, bit by bit, it became public property.

If Mr. Mosessohn, for years an official of the Bnai Brith, does not know of any real work the Bnai Brith is doing to-day and cannot give any substantial reasons why men should join, there is more room to believe that the Order is at fault than that the Bnai Brith magazine is remiss. If this man, on the inside of organization affairs, does not mind distributing in black and white, over his signature, what he thinks about it, then no objection should be made by members to criticism from other sources. One of these sources to comment on Bnai Brith activities of late is the New Palestine.

The New Palestine, apropos the recent quinquennial convention of the Bnai Brith, says:

"It is true that the membership of the organization has grown, but that growth does not signify anything, because it represents nothing of qualitative value. It simply means that there are now more Jews in the United States willing to associate themselves in an organization that has no ideal aim, that has no large programme, but that simply contributes to social ease or individual satisfaction of petty charitable impulses. The quality of the Order remains the same. Unless the doors of this organization are opened wide to progress and innovation, the Bnai Brith will continue to be the representative organization of the Babbitts in Jewish life. It will be an organization similar to the Kiwanis or the Rotary Club. It will not be representative of the ideals that animated the founders of the organization, and it will not be contributing adequately, considering its numbers, to the strengthening of Jewish life and to the development of Jewish ideals."

Charles Joseph, editor of the Pittsburgh Jewish Criterion, says of the attitude of the New Palestine: "This is a stern indictment that cannot be ignored. I have in times past voiced a similar protest against the programme of the Bnai Brith. There remains much yet to do for an organization with such a large membership and with excellent machinery to carry out whatever programme it decides upon."

A careful perusal of Adolf Kraus' presidential message given at the convention seems to give support to this. Mr. Kraus, retiring after twenty years as president, showed how the membership of the Order had increased from 18,000 in 1905 to 80,000 in 1925. After the war the president sent protests against economic boycotts of Jews in Poland; against injustices in Bulgaria, and received reports and replies, etc. The Order assisted Jewish immigration to Mexico. The Bnai Brith magazine was authorized by the executive committee to charge a subscription rate and publish national advertising, the "net" proceeds to be used for improving the magazine. Classes for immigrants were established and patriotism stimulated. The war orphan programme is being liquidated as six hundred wards in different countries grow up. The Order urged adherence to the immigration law; approved all measures which might humanize it, and hoped for a better law.

All this is very nice and praiseworthy, and perhaps necessary, but it does seem like a small cargo for such a big ship, even including the Hillel Foundations and the Anti-Defamation League, the outstanding endeavours. There are two Foundations, one at the University of Illinois and the other at the University of Wisconsin, their purpose being to provide systematic religious contact for Jewish college students. Of the Anti-Defamation League, for twelve years a fetish of the Order, the president reported that it had established contact with the Committee on Goodwill between Jews and Christians of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

Yes, yes! But what about Henry Ford and his Dearborn Independent? In Canada, there is La Croix, circulated in the province of Quebec among the French-Canadians. The CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW has received dozens of bitter complaints from Jews about the efforts of this paper to stir the blood of the people against the Jews. The simple-minded circulation list of La Croix doubtless believes the Catholic Church sponsors the paper, and through it the lives of many isolated Jewish families are made miserable. To abolish this viper of discord would be a noble act. Its existence should have been enough to put any anti-defamation organization on its mettle. Its continued existence is enough to call into question the real power of the Bnai Brith to cope with a real menace.

Son of Poor Immigrants Now Classed as Magnate

New York.—Mack Kanner, hailed as the Moses of the women's garment industry five years ago, when he led it from the east side to Seventh Avenue, has retired from his dressmaking business to open up a new Promised Land for the city's needleworkers. Again his course is westward.

In less than a year he plans to have ready for occupancy between Eighth and Ninth Avenues on 36th, 38th and 39th Streets nine loft buildings which will cost $22,000,000. Eight will be twelve stories high and the other twenty. The plots, now occupied by tenements, have been secured through "dummy" buyers in the last eighteen months and demolition of the old buildings will begin immediately.

Mr. Kanner stepped out of the business of Mack Kanner & Milius, Inc., of No. 498 Seventh Avenue, and into the Miridian Securities Corporation of No. 413 West 36th Street, which he and J. S. Becker, also a millionaire dress manufacturer, formed some time ago to carry out the new venture. Mr. Kanner is president of this concern and Mr. Becker, vice-president.

Simultaneously four of Mr. Kanner's employees, who have been with him since he entered the garment trade thirteen years ago, took over the dress business "for a nominal sum" and will continue it under the name of Mary Porpora, Inc. The new owners are Mary Porpora, head designer of the old firm; Abraham Morris, sales manager; Lidya Seccia, designer, and Nathan Bogert, head of the shipping department.

By his latest undertaking, and by the success with which he engineered the building of the Garment Centre Capitol five years ago at a cost of $13,500,000, Mr. Kanner is raised into the poor boy to magnate class in which three other striking examples

LEAVING Toronto you travel the beautiful expanse of Lake Ontario and soon into the Upper St. Lawrence River. Here, strewn like a necklace of jewels, studded with summer homes as beautiful as castles, capped by the rich green of the stately pine and the inviting hemlock, the 1000 Islands form an enchanting feature of that famous trip—Niagara-to-the-Sea.

The palatial boats that make this trip are equipped with restful staterooms, comfortable berths; excellent cuisine—every convenience and comfort you could wish.

You cruise through the 1000 Islands, then run the race with the St. Lawrence Rapids. If you commence your trip from Montreal you visit historic and quaint Quebec, and America's most magnificent inland waterway—the Saguenay Canyon—forms a fitting climax.

You will be surprised to find at what low cost you can take this wonderful trip.

Radio Battery Economy

To completely enjoy your Radio set, learn to operate it economically. There are practically only two parts which, with constant operation, wear out—tubes and batteries. Barring accidents, the tubes will give faithful performance for many months. The batteries, because of their ACTIVE part in radio operation, do become exhausted and need to be replaced with fresh batteries.

To get the greatest economy in radio batteries always use Eveready—long life is built into them at the factory, under the supervision of the greatest electro-chemical laboratory in the world. Eveready batteries are made in sizes for every radio purpose every battery gives the longest service for its size of any radio battery made.

Radio Batteries

recently have been brought to public attention.

They were Frederick Brown, real estate man, once a poor immigrant, who gave $1,000,000 to the Federation for the support of the Jewish Philanthropic Societies of New York; Benjamin Winter, former Polish immigrant, who bought the Astor mansion, and Samuel Aubel, one time ice peddler, who has just completed a merger that makes him worth $30,000,000.

Kanner is American born, but of poor Austrian immigrant parents who lived with him and his seventeen brothers and sisters at No. 52 Ludlow Street. He started in business when eight years old as an errand boy for a notion store at Canal Street and the Bowery and later travelled about the country peddling razors. He is now forty, married and lives with his wife and two children at Woodmere, L.I.

He weighs nearly 300 pounds, is well over 6 feet and has weathered lots of storms in a stormy industry because he looked—and was—a formidable opponent.

In the erection of the twenty-four-storey loft skyscrapers at 37th Street and Seventh Avenue which constitute the Garment Centre Capitol, Mr. Kanner was backed by the confidence and cash of thirty-one other men in the garment industry, one of them Mr. Becker. In the new venture, which is the largest thing of its kind ever undertaken in this city, he and Mr. Becker are the sole financiers.

The twenty-storey skyscraper is to be on the southeast corner of Eighth Avenue and 39th Street on a plot 62 by 100 feet.

The old Jewish cemetery in Minsk has been converted into a public garden. The tombstones and mausoleums have been removed, and the site has been ploughed up, preliminary to planting.

WESTERN TOURS THIS SUMMER REMARKABLY LOW IN COST

"We have travelled through the most glorious scenery it has ever been my privilege to witness," were the words used by the Duke of Devonshire while Governor-General of Canada, in expressing his admiration for the scenery of the Pacific Coast. The opinion be formed of our magnificent West is confirmed by the many people who tour this wonderful country every year.

If you are planning a tour of the Canadian Rockies and the Pacific Coast this summer, you can't do better than take one of the low-cost trips arranged by the Canadian National Railways.

These tours start from Toronto with stop-overs at all interesting points en route. At Jasper National Park—where the famous Triangle Tour commences—is the largest park and the largest sanctuary of wild life in the world—4,400 square miles of mountains, rivers, lakes, glaciers, canyons and waterfalls of almost overwhelming beauty.

Leaving Jasper, you pass Mount Robson, the highest peak in the Canadian Rockies; then comes the quaint Indian village of Kitwanga with its grotesque totem poles and Indian relics. At Prince Rupert you may choose an interesting side trip to Alaska, or you may board the steamer for the three-day trip through the famous scenic seas of the Pacific Coast to Vancouver, Victoria, Portland and Seattle. Returning, the train follows the beautiful winding Fraser and Thompson Rivers with their brilliant-coloured cliffs of red, gray and yellow, returning again to Jasper National Park—and in due time, to Toronto.

The outstanding beauty and completeness of these tours should appeal to every one. These low summer tourist fares will be in effect to October 31. Complete information, pamphlets and reservations may be secured from any Canadian National Railways Agent.

Presbyterian Assembly and Jewish Missions

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of England, at a recent meeting held in London, advocated a complete change of attitude toward Jewish missions and toward Judaism in general. Last October a committee was appointed with the Rev. Professor W. A. L. Elmslie, of Westminster College, Cambridge, to consider the whole question and the report of this committee which is now presented suggests a complete reversion of the existing policy of the church toward the Jews and Judaism. In coming to their conclusions, the committee had the advice and guidance of Dr. Israel Abrahams, a leader of Liberal Judaism, and of Mr. H. M. Loewe, an adherent of Orthodox Judaism.

Fom the very start, the committee asks whether it is right to offer material benefits to bring people within the reach of religious propaganda. It points out that while it is possible that the 3,500 attendances for medical aid in the mission house may have been influenced to assume a more favourable attitude towards Christianity thereby, the thousands of well-to-do Jews who do not come near a mission house have thereby been stimulated to an antagonism, if not to a real scorn for Christianity. The report urges that an earnest effort be made in the spirit of honourable kindness and sympathy to remove the unfriendliness and mutual misconceptions which prevail on both sides. To this end, a number of definite suggestions are offered, as visits by Presbyterians to Jewish literary societies, the preparation of books and pamphlets jointly by Jews and Christians, papers by Christians appreciative of some aspects of Jewish life or faith, the repudiations by Christians of all kinds of Jewish persecution. But it is emphasized that all such efforts must be free from the suspicion that they are to be openings for "proselytising." "We do not want Jews to use friendship as a cloak for undermining our faith in Christ, neither must we make it an opportunity for attacking Judaism. It should be firmly and clearly stated that we are aware of the depth and profound importance of our theological differences, but we are also thankfully aware of a mutual desire to overcome the evil that is in the world and to serve the holy purposes of a righteous and merciful God."

Professor Elmslie supplemented the report with a powerful address in which he urged the Assembly to adopt the various resolutions suggested by the report. In the course of his address he said: "I put it to you, responsible ministers and elders here, if a Jewish Institute were set up near your church and efforts made to win over your people, how would it affect you? Is it the sort of approach that would incline you to think well of the Jewish religion and to consider for what truths it stands? Or if your young people were being urged to attend, would you be stirred up to resist?" He therefore pleaded for less aggressiveness and for a better understanding to be generated by activities in which both sides should work jointly.

The Assembly adopted a set of resolutions, first reaffirming the right of liberty of conscience in religion and condemning all persecutions. Then the resolutions provide that material benefits should not be used as an inducement to bring people within the reach of religious propaganda, that the benefits of the medical mission should not be made conditional on attendance at religious services. It was further resolved to initiate a movement on new lines to promote sympathetic relations between Jews and Christians, on the principle that while the differences between the two religions are elemental and vital, there is also a measure of agreement in religious beliefs and that fuller regard should be given to the moral and spiritual obligations and opportunities inherent in this fact. Other resolutions, in the spirit of the report, were also adopted. An editorial in the Jewish Chronicle, which warns Jews to approach the matter with care and great caution, concludes: "It may well prove to be the historic starting point of a realization by all creeds of the common ground of good upon which they are based."

Jewish schools in various towns in Poland were recently visited by members of the police who instituted inquiries from the children as to the courses of study and the method of instruction. These visits were made simultaneously in various centres, without the Jewish authorities being informed of the reason for them.

Social Life about 25 Years Ago— Do You Remember?—

Born to Mr. and Mrs. T. Glickman, of Montreal, a son; to Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Avner, a son; to Mr. and Mrs. L. Schloman, a daughter; to Mr. and Mrs. Philip Glickman, twin sons; to Mr. and Mrs. M. Coviensky, a son; to Mr. and Mrs. J. Roston, Hutchison Street, a daughter. Mr. and Mrs. M. Sessenwein were in Chicago to attend the marriage of their son, Lewis, to Miss Rosie Smith. Dr. J. Alton Harris, son of L. Harris, was a member of the seventh medical corps of the Imperial army. At Elm Hall, Westmount, Miss Hannah Friedman was married to Max Miller; the couple went to live in Lachine. The Montefiore Club debated on "Which exercises the most influence, the press or the pulpit?" For the press: J. A. Jacobs, Marcus Hirsch, A. B. Vineb, J. Samuel; pulpit: Joseph Levinson, C. Ollendorf, H. N. Freedman, Isaac Cohen. Julius Bachrach read a paper on "Jewish Vitality." The following held social meetings Wednesday afternoons: Mesdames Lyon Cohen, Gustav Fischel, David S. Friedman, Isaac Friedman, Maxwell Goldstein, S. J. Goldstein, Archie Jacobs, L. H. Jacobs, H. E. M. Levine, Charles Redlich, Mark Workman. Rabbi Kaplan lectured on Ibn Gabirol. Born, at Perth, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mendles. Julius Cohen was married to Gertrude, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Asriel Elias. Miss Julia Goldstein, 30 St. Luke Street, gave a party. Mrs. A. Rosenthal, Sr., and Mrs. Sam Myers, of Ottawa, thanked friends in various cities for donations which enabled them to supply two beds for Jewish patients in a Protestant hospital. J. Pullman, 533 Craig Street, was advertising for a man wishing to learn the trade of operative tailor who would work four weeks for nothing. Henry Roman died of injuries received at the hands of a neighbour during a dispute arising from some trivial matter; he was a manufacturing jeweller, well-read, studious and interested in philanthropic movements. Mrs. Joseph Lesser, of Halifax, and Mrs. N. Silver, of Merricksville, were the guests of Mrs. R. Wetstein, 61 Church Street. Joseph Pierce, of Oxbow, was visiting his son, C. Pierce, 1528c Ontario Street. Jacob Goldstein was suffering from a severe sprain.

THE GREAT TAKU GLACIER

There are many notable sights to be seen by the tourist who has the opportunity to visit Alaska, but none more impressive than the famous Taku glacier, which lies between Wrangell and Juneau. This is one of the largest ice fields in the world. Where the ice breaks off in great bergs that fall into the sea with a roar like a peal of thunder, the glacier is one mile wide, and from there it extends ninety miles back into the heart of the mountains that gird this rich and beautiful land. It is one of the few great advancing glaciers left in North America and it is a sight which impresses itself deeply upon those who are privileged to view it. That number will be greatly increased this summer by the inauguration of a steamship service by the Canadian National Railways from Vancouver and Prince Rupert as far north as Skagway, Alaska, with ports of call en route at Ketchikan, a typical Alaskan town built at the foot of the mountains; Wrangell, a city where jewelled ladies of the Russian Court danced in rustling silk when other belles were threading the mazes of the minuet in towns on the Atlantic Coast; Juneau, the modern and attractive capital of this northern outpost of the United States, and Skagway, the portal to the famous White Horse Pass, whose name is linked forever with the great gold rushes where men gambled their lives for the sake of hidden gold. Alaska in summer is a land of surpassing beauty and great richness of colour. It is a land where a holiday is an adventure and whose memory will linger long after others have faded away. DEATH OF S. H. EMANUEL, K.C.

S. H. Emanuel, K.C., LL.D., died at his residence, 48 Holland Park, London, Friday. The deceased had been ill for some weeks. He was in his 60th year.

Samuel Henry Emanuel was born in Southampton, where his father, Henry Herschel Emanuel, was one of the leading business men of the town. He was educated at University College School, London, and proceeded, at an early age, to Trinity Hall, Cambridge, where he took honours in the mathematical and law triposes, and later was admitted to the degree of LL.D. In 1886 he was called to bar at the Inner Temple, and soon joined the Western circuit. He speedily built up a large practice, and took silk in 1919. In 1915, he was appointed recorder of Winchester. He was also a bencher of the Inner Temple.

Amid the calls of his busy professional life, Mr. Emanuel found time to serve the community. For some years he had been treasurer of the United Synagogue, in conjunction with his friend, Mr. F. D. Benjamin.

The late treasurer never spared himself. The affairs of the central office and the individual synagogues alike claimed his enthusiasm, and no function of any of his constituents was complete without his welcome presence. Almost the last function he attended was in connection with the Brixton Synagogue, one of the youngest members of the United Synagogue Federation, to which he was attached. On the council platform he was a commanding figure, and his intervention in debate was usually the signal for the close of the discussion. His standpoint was invariably conservative; but he had the respect and the confidence of all because they recognized in him one who not only advocated Orthodox Judaism, but one who lived it in his own life. For some years he filled the position of chairman of the visitation committee, a post to which he brought his knowledge and powers of organization to the advantage of that work.

One of the chief services he rendered the community was in connection with Jews' College. After some time as a member of the council of that institution, he was elected, on the death of the late Mr. Joshua Levy, to the position of chairman. The last service he rendered his people was the agreement he was able to effect between the College and the War Memorial. After years of difference, fought at times with acrimony on both sides, he had the satisfaction of knowing, before he died, that the ideal for which he had striven was near realization. It is a tribute to the place he occupied, that, although a year has elapsed since he retired from the chairmanship, no one has yet been selected to succeed him.

In private life Mr. Emanuel was a simple, unostentatious figure, with many friends who loved to spend time in his company. His home was a strict Jewish home, where Sabbath, festivals and the precepts of his faith were rigidly observed. He was a member of the new West End Synagogue and worshipped with regularity on Sabbaths and both days of the festivals. For some years he was a member of the board of management, and no question in the affairs of the Synagogue was discussed without his co-operation. He gave his advice readily and gladly, and he will be sorely missed.

Mr. Emanuel is survived by his widow, a daughter of the late Mr. Abraham Lazarus, and a sister of Mr. Arthur Lazarus—one of the treasurers of the Burial Society, and by a daughter and two sons.

DR. YELLIN LEAVES NEW YORK TO CROSS CONTINENT FOR ROSENWALD GIFT

New York.—To win the $50,000 gift promised by Mr. Julius Rosenwald, the Chicago philanthropist, on condition that the balance required for the new buildings of the Hebrew Teachers' College in Jerusalem be obtained, Dr. David Yellin, its principal, will race across the continent, from New York to San Francisco. After his duties as visiting professor at the Jewish Institute of Religion and at Columbia University are concluded, he will have but one month to achieve his goal of $150,000, before he sets sail, with Mrs. Yellin, for Palestine, early in July.

The Hebrew Teachers' College is distinct from the Hebrew University. It is training the teachers required for the new public school system that is developing in Palestine, and is supplying the Hebrew schools of many lands outside of Palestine with teachers of a very advanced type. In the United States alone there are fifty of its graduates teaching in our Talmud and Hebrew educational institutions.

Supplementing Mr. Rosenwald's conditional gift of $50,000, Doctor Yellin has announced a gift of $10,000 by Morris Weinstein of New York City.

The American committee, which is sponsoring the appeal of Dr. Yellin, includes the following: Dr. Harry Friedenwald, of Baltimore, chairman; Israel Unterberg, of New York City, treasurer; Dr. David de Sola Pool, of New York City, secretary; Alfred M. Cohen, Cincinnati; Rabbi Louis L. Mann, Chicago; Sol. Rosenbloom, Pittsburg; Julius Rosenwald, Chicago; Rabbi Israel Goldstein, Dr. George A. Kohut, Arthur M. Lamport, Louis Lipsky, Solomon Lowenstein, Judge Julian W. Mack, Louis Marshall, Israel Matz, Henrietta Szold, Rabbi J. Max Weis, Dr. Stephen S. Wise, all of New York City.

Rabbi J. Max Weis, a member of the committee, will accompany Dr. Yellin on his transcontinental tour.

HADASSAH

The annual meeting of the Central Chapter of Hadassah took place as a dinner at the Zionist Institute, Monday, June 8.

The guests of honour were M. Gelber, president of the Zionist Council; Mrs. D. Dunkelman, Mr. L. M. Singer, Mrs. Greenfarb, H. M. Caiserman, and Mr. Cash. L. M. Singer spoke on Zionism. Mrs. L. M. Schwartz, in her presidential address, reported that this chapter's pledge of $1,000 to Keren Hayesod was paid; that this chapter had made $1,700 at the last yarid, and had held regular meetings every second Monday throughout the past season. Among the year's speakers were Dr. Shmarya Levin, Dr. Rebelsky, Rabbi and Mrs. Cohen of the United Synagogues of America; the actress, Vera Gordon; Mrs. A. J. Freiman. Mrs. Dunkelman, on behalf of the Hadassah Council, presented twenty-five trees in the name of the Central Chapter. Five trees each were inscribed and presented to Alfred Schwartz, Oscar and Murray Abramovitz and Sniderman on their bar-mitzvah; five trees each were previously inscribed and presented to F. Fine on his bar-mitzvah, and to Mrs. M. Wolfson, chairman of the National Fund. A corsage of flowers was presented to Mrs. D. Dunkelman, and a bouquet of American beauties to Mrs. L. M. Shwartz. Programme: Songs, Miss F. Morrison; violin solos and piano, the Gelzin brothers. New officers: President, Mrs. L. M. Shwartz; vice-president, Mrs. Hansher; treasurer, Mrs. J. Shane; financial secretary, Miss Reva Geller; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Weinstein. The dinner was convened by Mrs. Himmel, Mrs. Posen and Mrs. Fine. One tree was presented to Mrs. Kamarner on the birth of her grandchild. Reports were read by Mrs. Posen, sick visiting; Mrs. Shane, pure food sale; Miss Geller, finances; Mrs. Hansher, treasurer; Mrs. Abramowitz, National Fund.

On June 1, Western Chapter of Hadassah held its annual meeting as a luncheon and bridge. About seventy-five members were present. Guests of honour were: Mrs. D. Dunkelman, Mrs. A. Selick and Mrs. A. M. Schiffer and H. M. Caiserman. A feature was the presentation to Mesdames Barrett and Seltzer of a dunam of land each, and flowers; and to Mrs. Schiffer a Hadassah pin. Officers: President, Mrs. A. B. Bennett; 1st vice president, Mrs. H. Horne; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. M. M. Davis; secretary, Mrs. Greisman; treasurer, Mrs. Cowan. National Fund Committee: Mrs. J. which American labour cannot and does not supply and which only immigration makes available. But let Canadians not forget that the U.S.A. was built up into the most prosperous nation on earth to-day and has 110 millions of people, and therefore can afford to make mistakes in so far as immigration policy is concerned. Canada with a territory as rich, fertile and potentially as productive as that across the line has only eight millions of people and can not afford to imitate the erroneous and unscientific immigration policy of her neighbour.

Canadian labour is also being mentally annexed by U.S.A. labour, by imitating and repeating blindly the latter's theory about the relation of immigration to unemployment. Every scientifically-trained economist knows that a liberal immigration policy which allows people to come into the country at their own initiative and expense, without being assisted or induced to come by false promises, is not responsible for unemployment. Unemployment comes periodically in cycles of from six to ten years. The economic forces which produce unemployment also retard the flow of immigration, whilst these economic conditions that produce prosperity encourage immigration. It is the old law of supply and demand that governs immigration and nothing else. Canadian labour need not fear a liberal immigration policy. Canada needs increased population. Increased population will produce a greater home market for Canada's agricultural and manufactured products. An enlarged domestic market will free the Canadian farmer and manufacturer from his being totally dependent upon export. What makes the U.S.A. a great country is that it has the natural resources, the population and home market to be self-contained. The people of the U.S.A. consume 90 per cent. of all that is grown, mined and manufactured in that country. What Canada needs is not to imitate the U.S.A. immigration policy, which is rigid, inhuman and unsuited to America's economic needs, but an immigration policy scientifically determined by a commission of experts, independent of political party influence, composed of the various interests of Canada—agriculture, labour, manufacture and capital. This commission can devise a policy which Parliament shall approve and that will govern the three phases of immigration—selection, distribution and incorporation. By selection I mean the admission of any white man or woman who will come of his or her own free will, mentally and physically sound; willing and able to work and throw in his or her lot with Canada, by adjusting himself or herself to the requirements and laws of Canada. We need more of this sort of independent type of immigration and less of the assisted kind. And as for assimilation, we need have no fear of the second generation being Canadian, if only our public schools, which are Canada's greatest agency for assimilation, are permitted to do their work freely and unhampered. By distribution I mean studying the types of immigrant that come and directing them into those sections of Canada where they can have the greatest opportunity to use their trades and training. By incorporation I refer to a conscious, aggressive policy of Canadianization. For too long we have neglected the immigrant after his arrival. To become a Canadian he requires fellowship and guidance. The governments of our Dominion and Provinces have been derelict in their duty in this regard. We must also remember in working out an immigration policy for Canada not to overemphasize the agricultural development and under-estimate the industrial phase of Canadian development. Boht must progress together and in proportion.

Canadians can not, I repeat, afford to be influenced by the ideas of immigration that to-day govern the United States.

Another instance of mental annexation is that in respect to the menacing cities in the East. The Klan has fomented religious and racial prejudice in the U.S.A. and is totally out of place in Canada, where our racial and religious problems are sufficiently prominent without requiring intensification. The Klan should find no response from Canadians, and should be stamped out and forbidden wherever an attempt is made by its organizers to fasten its poisonous tentacles on our body politic.

Canada is suffering from the bogey of tariff reform. In the East we hear that only a high protective tariff will solve, Messiah-like, all our economic and social ills. In the West we hear the reverse—only a low tariff will accomplish this end. Both East and West fail to realize that tariff reforms, like immigration, are not matters to be determined by party politics or by sectionalism. They can only be viewed from the viewpoint of the country as a whole and should be determined scientifically after careful study of the needs of all sections of the country. The tariff and immigration must be taken out of politics. A high protective tariff which is now being advocated is closely related to immigration because it is of no avail unless there is a large consuming population for whom the industries to be protected are producing. Of what avail is a protected industry if there is no home market for its products? Tariff reform upward is foolhardy without increased population. This bogy must also be gotten rid of if Canada is to advance.

There are other bogies, such as sectionalism and provincialism, the bogy that Canada is in danger of not remaining British if large scale immigration is allowed, the bogy of religion in our schools, and the absence of faith in Canada, which I will discuss in my final article, which will also contain the reasons why I have faith in Canada's future.

EVERYBODY IS PLANNING HOLIDAYS

Everyone is making plans to spend their vacation in one of the many different holiday places that are scattered from coast to coast across Canada.

The charming resorts on the sea coast of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island are becoming increasingly popular because of the wealth of scenic loveliness and unlimited amusements they afford, including sea bathing and sea fishing. While in Muskoka, Lake of Bays, Kawartha Lakes and Georgian Bay, golf, tennis, bathing, boating, etc., are added attractions. For real fishing in Ontario, the forest reserves of Nipigon, Quetico, Timagami and Algonquin Park cannot be surpassed.

Or take a trip to the Canadian Rockies and the Pacific Coast for which low tourist fares are being offered. There is wonderful mountain scenery, rushing rivers, glaciers, Indian villages, and a magnificent 550-mile sail through the sheltered scenic seas of the Pacific Coast. Then again there is the world-renowned Alaska tour.

Ask any agent of the Canadian National Railways for beautifully illustrated booklets of the different resorts and full information regarding them.

Bricklays His Way to Honor

Almost any bricklayer can philosophize, but William Leider is the only known philosopher who can lay bricks under the rules of the Bricklayers', Masons' and Plasterers' International Union of America, Local No. 9.

He has a union card, which gets him bricklaying jobs at the regular scale of $12 a day with time and a half for overtime.

And as for philosophy, he has a record of A ratings and A plus in philosophy in Columbia College, which last month got him a gold Phi Beta Kappa key. It hangs on the watch chain, which every self-respecting bricklayer wears under his overalls.

When he takes off his overalls he may be recognized by this key as a member of that ancient Greek letter fraternity to which none but scholars of high attainment are admitted.

Leider is going to lay bricks to-day and the remainer of the summer, as he has done for the last two summers, in order that he may put in another year of philosophy at Columbia and get his degree of bachelor of arts.

Eventually he hopes to teach philosophy, but for the present he says laying bricks is all he knows how to do that will provide the money he needs.

This morning he will be among those present in the row along the top of the wall at Herzl Street and Lott Avenue, Brooklyn, and will be expected to hold up his end with the bricks. For the Bricklayers' Union doesn't issue cards for the encouragement of philosophy.

By bricks the Leider family has progressed—and this introduces a miniature epic of Americanization.

It was a brick thrown at the Leiders during the pogroms in Kishneff in 1905 which made them leave Russia, where Jews were being blamed somehow for losing the Russo-Japanese War.

The brick hit Mrs. Jacob Leider, William's mother, on the head and when she came to she had the idea that America would be a safer place to bring up the children.

Thereupon the father being only twenty-seven and the first three sons still infants—the Leiders came to New York with $10 in hand, no knowledge of the language and no job for the father, who was a bricklayer by trade. They got along somehow and three more boys were born, making six sons and no girls.

The father taught them all to lay bricks as soon as they were old enough. And the mother planned to get them the education and opportunities they could not have found in the old country.

The Leider boys solved the problem of living by joining the same Union as their father and laying bricks during summer vacations. Recently their father was able to start in business as a contracting bricklayer, aided by his oldest married son, Samuel, who is twenty-six.

The second son, Ben, bricklayed his way through City College and the School of Journalism of the University of Missouri and is now twenty-four and a reporter here on the Graphic.

Will, the third son, the last to be born in Russia, is the present bricklaying philosopher. He won a Pulitzer Scholarship in 1922 and a State scholarship of $100 a year, and he is now twenty-one.

Max, the first son born in America, is nineteen, studying at the School of Architecture in the University of Michigan and is a member of the same bricklayers' union as his philosophical brother. He will come home to lay bricks in about two weeks.

Morris, seventeen, is an apprentice in the Bricklayers' Union. He is about to be graduated from Boys' High School and is a candidate for the same Pulitzer Scholarship his brother won three years ago.

Sydney, twelve, is still at Public School No. 174, in Brooklyn, ready to lay bricks when his turn comes.

The Leider family still is intact at No. 216 New Lots Avenue, Brooklyn, and is building two comfortable houses for itself. The father and mother have been so busy launching their sons as Americans that they have not had time to learn the language very well. "But," says Ben, the son who is now a reporter, "it's a good story when you think of it, isn't it?" —New York World.

The Zionist organization has now handed over the administration and property of the Hebrew University to the Board of Governors, of which Dr. J. L. Magnes was elected president for one year. Dr. Weinzmann will make an effort to raise $250,000 for the immediate needs of the University.

A Hungarian Jew was found guilty of placing the Magen David alongside the Hungarian national emblem on the window of his fruit store. This was regarded as an insult to the national pride and the victim was given one year's imprisonment, implying the loss of his citizenship rights for three years.

When do you enjoy Coca-Cola most?

Thousands of answers are arriving daily.

They are coming from all over the Dominion. The Coca-Cola contest is proving the most popular ever conducted in Canada. Wherever happy-hearted people are gathered together, someone is sure to ask: "When do you enjoy Coca-Cola most?"

Have You Sent in Your Answer?

Could you imagine a more interesting five minutes than to sit down and write your answer to this question?

The contest is proving as popular with high school boys and girls as with grown-ups. The answer of a boy or a girl is just as likely to be interesting as that of someone of mature years.

What is Coca-Cola?

The description of this beverage is as well known as its name. It is "delicious and refreshing". It is a blend of pure products from nature—with nothing artificial in it. And it is prepared in clean, modern plants where every possible precaution is taken to safeguard its purity and goodness.
